

Liquid Salvia Divinorum Tincture Information:

Tincture is a mixture of Salvia Divinorum, grain alcohol and water. Tincture is not diluted with any additional water. It contains small percentage of water already present in 95-proof grain alcohol, used as a solvent to extract the active ingredient from the Salvia leaves.

Tincture was created for sublingual absorption. Many people consider this type of experience more beneficial than that of smoked Salvia Divinorum because the effects are gentler and much longer lasting. The effects are closer to those of the traditional Mazatec Indian method of rolling the leaves into a quid and chewing them, but tincture is much more convenient. Additionally, the effects from tincture are more uniform and reliable than those of the quid-chewing method.

The initial effects are felt about fifteen minutes after the first dosage is applied sublingually. Over the next fifteen minutes, the strength of the effects increases gradually. Then a plateau is reached which lasts about 20 to 30 minutes. The effects will then diminish over the next hour or so. If a person uses repeated dosages, the duration and strength of the entire experience could be extended.

You may use tincture right from the bottle, or it may be diluted with water or soda. Before using tincture, it is best to brush your tongue and gums and rinse with an alcohol-based mouthwash (one that also contains menthol is preferable). This ensures that the tincture is more readily absorbed. Use 20 to 30 drops, according to preference, under the tongue for five minutes...Repeat as desired (Note: one serving is 20 to 30 drops). One serving will produce a mild experience, two servings (20-30 drops for 5 minutes then 20-30 more for another 5 minutes) will produce a medium experience, and three servings in 5 minute intervals) will produce a strong experience.

Diluting the tincture with a little warm water or soda is recommended; otherwise, it may irritate the mouth's mucus membranes. Please note that diluting it will reduce the potency. Liquid Salvia Divinorum can be diluted to 1 part water to 1 part tincture or 1 part water to 2 parts tincture (again according to preference).

Dried Salvia leaf or extract enhanced Salvia leaf can be used in conjunction with the tincture method to boost the strength of the experience. Tincture may also be used to enhance raw, dried Salvia leaf. Drop it onto leaf and mix well. Allow the leaves to dry out completely (the grain alcohol and water will evaporate, leaving behind the Salvia concentrate).

Please be informed: When using any salvia product, be safe. Start out with only the tiniest amount. Please read all information about Salvia Divinorum and its history before using any Salvia Divinorum product. This page is for informational use only...

To order please visit your favorite local retailer.

or online: www.purplesticky.com | www.purplestickysalvia.com |